

TEACHING EDUCATORS TO TEACH VALUES

Jan Nieuwenhuis
Higher Education Quality Committee and
University of Pretoria,
Manager: Accreditation and National Reviews
Nieuwenhuis.j@che.ac.za

OUTLINE OF PRESENTATION

- Values in higher education
- Defining values
- Expectations regarding values in education
- Teaching educators to teach values

Values in higher education

- Higher education is concerned with values
- Values eroded over past century
- Whose values and what values?

What are values?

- Something that is desirable
- Something to which we attach a specific worth
- It directs our lives
- It makes us who we are
- Spiritual (inner-person) – it inspires and motivates
- Affective

Values are abstract, internalised conceptions of what is important to an individual, group, community, determines how he/she/they will think about or behave in a specific situation and therefore directs personal, group choices

Expectations

A return to traditional values

Fix the kids

Lead transformation

If its Friday it must be respect

Sending your ducks to Eagle School

Teaching educators to teach values

Scaffolded-experiential learning

DIAGRAM: THE REFLECTIVE LEARNING PROCESS

